

You're gonna Love these Saturday night Acts...

Mama's Mountain Jug Band - A jugband with a FAT sound, (but no jug!!!) featuring hot guitar work, smoking fiddle, crazy washboard and blazing mandolin, as well as creamy harmonies. They have fun with music your mothers sang in the bath. Politically correct songs (we insult EVERYBODY equally!), ragtime tunes, singalong, foot tapping old-time nonsense make for a wild session not to be missed. Evan Webb, Roy Carter, Keith Rae and Sally Carter bring you this wonderful sound.

Chris Newman - A festival favourite, Chris accompanies himself on guitar, singing country, rock 'n' roll and country rock, especially Neil Diamond, Roy Orbison and John Fogerty songs.

Dancing with the Angels - A local Broadford band that has been together for over 12 years, featuring Pauline Swain, Bruce Sedawie, Ricki Smit and Tony O'Rourke. This band specializes in gospel music, but also turn their hand to bluegrass, 60s and 70s as well as rock 'n' roll.

James Gang - John James on guitar, Pam James and Rod Hearn on mandolin, Dave Ashby on bass and Peter Roach on accordion, play a mix of country, ballads, bluegrass and bush music. The James Gang have a long history of performing around the Mornington Peninsula.

Just for Fun- Max Amos, Barry Larkin and Peter Buchi have been playing together for some years. They co-op others to present a fluid sound, playing anything from rock'n'roll to bluegrass and anything in between.

Spare Parts-Spare Parts are a genuine bunch of great mates from all over Victoria, who originally met at Jigarre Jammin'. Collectively they perform a diverse range of melodies, instrumentals and harmonies with vocals by Cathy, Audrey guitar, Angela fiddle, John banjo, Di mando and Jan on double bass.

Not Quite Right- a six piece ensemble playing traditional jazz from the Dixieland era. The band consists of Richard Desmond on trombone /vocals, Barry Law on keyboard, David O'Sullivan on drums, Dave Graham on double bass , David Aumann on guitar / vocal and brother Alan on cornet/vocal/band leader. These guys are more than happy to deliver the jazz flavor of last year, with a bit different lineup....I'll bet you anything they are more than not quite right!!!!

The Healers- they'll make you feel better!! This lazy Sunday afternoon band delivers country and blues and stuff in between. The team is Steven Wickam (bass/slide/vocals) and Neil Taylor (guitar/blues harp/vocals); Trevor Sleeman (guitar/ lead vocals), and Catlin Sleeman{guitar/drums/vocals) can't make it this year. Great local talent!

THE HEALERS

"We'll make you feel better!"

Based in northern Victoria, you'll meet Trevor Sleeman ( guitar, lead vocals ) Steven Wickham ( bass, slide, vocals ) and Neil Taylor ( guitar, blues harp, vocals ). Adding extra lustre to the line up is Trevor's daughter Catlin Sleeman ( guitar, drums, vocals ). This combo can be a laid-back cruisy duo stretching all the way to a four-piece, full on , rockin' band guaranteed to send you home happy.

Local Content- Local Content are, well, - local! Five musical friends who get together and play songs from the 70s, 80s and 90s with the very occasional tune from this century. They play songs you know and love and aim to get everyone dancing.....

Local content are: Patrick Gibson, guitar. Patrick is simply one of the sweetest players around. Bruce Russel, guitar and vocals. Bruce is incredibly versatile, and turns his hand to many styles with consulate ease. Cointha Walkeden, keyboards and vocals. Cointha is furthering her education at the Victorian College of The Arts, and her effortless style is something to behold. Ali Walsh, drums and vocals. Ali somehow uses two hands, two feet and her vocal chords at the same time. Who said drummers weren't clever? Matt Walsh, bass and vocals. Matt loves holding down the bottom end and pumping out the grooves that make Local Content such a fun party band.
